

Software-Team Deutschland GmbH

End-user license agreement (EULA)

The copyright to this software is owned by

Software-Team Deutschland GmbH
Sophienblatt 25-27
D-24114 Kiel
Germany

- hereinafter the "Licensor" -.

It is an offence to reproduce or distribute this Software or parts thereof without authorisation. Such actions can lead to criminal or civil proceedings resulting in severe penalties or damage claims.

The Licensor grants you - hereinafter the "Licensee" - use of this Software subject to the following licensing conditions:

§1 Object of Licence

- 1) The Agreement refers to the present computer program in the released, full version including the licence file necessary for its release ("Software") together with the program description, user manual and other accompanying literature ("Documentation").
- 2) The main program is transferred to the Licensee by order via sealed data carriers or by downloading from the Licensor's website. Until a licence file is purchased, the main program can only be used as a limited test version. In order to use all functions, the Licensee must purchase a Licence file from the Licensor or an authorised dealer. The Licence file is transferred to the Licensee by sending a sealed data carrier or, at the Licensee's request and in some cases at the Licensor's option, by email. If the main program or Licence file is downloaded by the Licensee, the transfer is deemed to have taken place on completion of the download. The main program is accompanied by the Documentation; this is supplied by the Licensor irrespective of the mode of software transfer, either as a printed version or as a file in a universal format (e.g. hlp, txt or pdf). If the Licensee obtains the Software by downloading it from the Licensor's server by modem or internet, he also obtains the Documentation in the same way.
- 3) The Software detailed in the Documentation conforms to the latest technological standard. The Licensee is reminded that it is not possible according to current technological standards to produce software which is guaranteed to operate error-free with all applications and in all combinations (especially with third-party software).
- 4) The Software must not be used in hazardous environments requiring continuous fail-safe performance (high risk activities such as the operation of nuclear facilities, weapons systems, aircraft navigation or communication systems and life-support machines).

§2 Scope of use

The Licensor grants the Licensee a non-exclusive, non-transferable right to use one copy of the Software subject to the terms and conditions of this agreement - particularly with regard to the type and quantity of computers - ("Licence"). The scope of the Licence is detailed in the file LICENSE.TXT supplied with the Licence file.

§3 Reproduction rights and distribution of Software

- 1) The Licensee may copy the Software to the extent necessary for its use. This includes installing the Software from the original data carrier or downloaded installation archive in the mass memory of the hardware according to §2 and loading the Software into the working memory in order to use it.
- 2) In addition, the Licensee may make a copy of the Software for backup purposes. Only one backup copy of the original data carrier or downloaded installation archive may be produced and/or stored. This backup must be identified as a copy of the purchased Software.

3) Where regular backups of the entire data stocks including the relevant programs are part of an indispensable routine for reasons of data security or ensuring a rapid reactivation of the computer system following a crash, the Licensee may make the number of backup copies absolutely necessary. The relevant data carriers must be identified accordingly. The backup copies must be used exclusively for archiving purposes.

4) The Licensee is obliged to take suitable precautions to prevent unauthorised third-party access to the Software and Documentation. The term "third party" also applies to subsidiaries of the Licensee. The original data carriers and backup copies must be stored in a place where they are protected from third-party access. The staff of the Licensee must be explicitly instructed to observe the present contractual terms and copyright provisions.

5) The Licensee is not permitted,

a) subject to the exceptions explicitly granted in this Agreement, to make any other copies whether partial or whole of the Software or Documentation on the same or other carriers; this also applies to the printing out of the program code;

b) to transfer the Software from one computer via a network or other data transmission channel to another computer or receiving device unless the computer or other device at the receiving end is owned by the Licensee and covered by the terms of this Agreement;

c) without the written permission of the Licensor to modify, translate, reverse-engineer, decompile or disassemble the Software or create derivative works therefrom or, unless essential under the contractual terms of use, to copy, translate or modify the Documentation or create derivative works therefrom;

d) to remove copyright notices, serial numbers or other program identification features unless prior written permission has been granted by the Licensor;

e) to pass on the Software to a third party or make it accessible to a third party in any other form. This also applies to copies of the Software. The term "third party" includes all subsidiaries of the Licensee; distribution of the Software within the group of companies for exclusive use at the new location is permissible subject to the written consent of the Licensor which may only be refused for a good reason. In this case, compliance must be ensured with §2 and §3 "Scope of use" and the other items agreed in the present Contract and any subsidiary agreements. After passing on the Software, the Licensee must delete it and any backup copies fully and immediately from the previous location within the group of companies;

f) to transfer the Software or Documentation or parts thereof to a third party by way of a temporary hire or leasing arrangement.

§4 Other rights relating to the Software

In implementing the present agreement, the Licensee acquires full rights only to the physical data carriers containing the Software and Documentation. Rights of exploitation and use of the Software and Documentation are only acquired to the extent explicitly stated in the present Agreement. The Licensor retains in particular all rights of publication, reproduction, editing, translation and other forms of exploitation in respect of the Software.

§5 Term of agreement and termination

1) The Licensor is authorised to use the Software and Documentation for an unlimited period.

2) This shall not affect the right of both parties to give premature notice of termination for a good reason. In particular, the Licensor has the right of termination without notice in the event of a major breach of contractual obligations by the Licensee.

3) After notice of termination, the Licensee is obliged to delete the Software completely, particularly the original data carrier, any backup copies and the Software files installed on his computer system, and to return the Documentation. The Licensor is entitled to demand from the Licensee a solemn declaration that this deletion has taken place.

§6 Warranty and cooperation of the Licensee

1) Warranty claims based on defects in the Software or Documentation may only be asserted by the Licensee against the supplier of the Software, i.e. especially the dealer.

2) If the Licensors is himself the supplier - i.e. where the Software is purchased directly from him - he shall guarantee, unless otherwise agreed on an individual basis, the possibility of use in accordance with the Documentation. The legal warranty period begins with the transfer of the Software according to §1 Section 2. If the Licensee is not a consumer within the meaning of the German Civil Code, the following shall apply in addition: the warranty period shall be 12 months; in the event of deviations from the Documentation which constitute a major hindrance to the agreed use, the Licensors shall be obliged to offer replacement or repair at its option. If the Licensors fails within a reasonable period to eliminate the deviations by replacement or repair or to circumvent them in such a way as to allow the Licensee to use the Software as specified in the Contract, or if the replacement or repair is deemed to have failed for any other reason, the Licensee can at its option demand a reduction of the purchase price (redhibition) or terminate the Licence for the program without notice in return for reimbursement of the paid remuneration.

3) When transcribing, delimiting, identifying and reporting errors, the Licensee shall be as precise as possible regarding error messages and queries and use competent staff for this purpose. If necessary, checklists from the dealer or Licensors should be used.

§7 Liability and third-party property rights

1) The Licensors shall be liable for any damage for which he is responsible up to an amount five times the remuneration paid for the Software or Licence file. The basis for calculation shall be the remuneration amount excluding VAT at the time of purchase.

2) The Licensors shall not be liable for lack of financial gain, indirect and consequential damages and damages arising from third-party claims, with the exception of claims based on the violation of third-party property rights.

3) The Licensors shall only be liable for negligence if an obligation is violated whose observance is of particular importance for the achievement of the contractual purpose (cardinal obligation).

4) The Licensors shall only be liable for the restitution of data and other damages caused by data loss within the limits of a typical case of restitution and only once the Licensee has ensured that these data are reproducible by proper, reasonable efforts from data stocks available in machine-readable form, i.e. the Licensee having made regular backups commensurate with the relevant risks.

5) The liability limitations specified in Sections 1-4 shall not apply to damage based on intent or gross negligence on the part of the Licensors, his legal representatives, senior employees or vicarious agents, or to damages arising from death, injury or harm to health.

6) Should the Licensee fail to comply with any of the restrictions on use specified in the present Agreement, particularly §1 Section 4, the Licensors shall not be liable for any damage arising as a result of this non-compliance.

7) This shall not affect liability under the product liability act.

8) Should a third party assert claims regarding the contractual use of the applicable, unaltered original version of the Software or Documentation arising from a breach of industrial property rights or copyrights within the Federal Republic of Germany, the Licensors shall defend the Licensee against all claims. The Licensors shall assume any costs and damages imposed on the Licensee by the courts provided the Licensee has notified the Licensors of the assertion of such claims without delay and all defensive measures and settlement negotiations are reserved by the Licensors.

9) If claims according to Section 8 or other claims due to the breach of third-party property rights have been asserted or are expected to be asserted, the Licensors is entitled at its option to modify the Software or Documentation or exchange all or part of it within limits acceptable to the Licensee.

10) If Sections 8 and 9 obtain and it should prove impossible to modify the Software or secure of a right of use by reasonable efforts, either party may terminate the Licence for the relevant Software without notice.

§8 Update service

After purchasing the Licence file, the Licensee is entitled to free use of the Licensor's Update Service. The term and scope of this right of use shall depend on the type of licence purchased and can be ascertained from the Licensor's website prior to ordering. Subscription to the update service after expiry of the first period of use is subject to a further fee. If the Software is purchased direct from the Licensor, the amount of this fee will depend on the Licensor's price list applicable at the beginning of the new period of use, which can be viewed on the Licensor's website.

§9 Remuneration of Licensor

- 1) If the conclusion and implementation of the present Agreement takes place directly with the Licensor without the mediation of a dealer,
 - a) the Licensor shall receive from the Licensee a one-off Licence fee on purchasing the Licence file necessary for the release of the Software; this also covers the purchase of an update entitlement for the first period of use. The amount of the Licence fee is based on the Licensor's price list applicable at the time of ordering (available on website) or other relevant agreement.
 - b) The Licence fee according to a) shall be due immediately on the transfer of the Licence file according to §1 Section 2 to the Licensee. The Licensee shall receive an invoice for the payable amount together with the Licence file.
- 2) If the Software is purchased via the mediation of a dealer, the Licence fee and any purchased update entitlement for the period of use shall be covered by the purchase price.

§10 Miscellaneous

- 1) Amendments and additions to this Agreement including this clause must be made in writing. No oral subagreements have been concluded. Standard terms and conditions of the Licensee are not part of this Agreement and do not apply to this contractual relationship.
- 2) Should any provision of this Agreement be or become invalid or unfeasible without essentially preventing the achievement of the contractual purpose, this shall not affect the legal validity of the remaining provisions. In this case, the parties shall replace the invalid or unfeasible provision with an acceptable provision with the same economic intent.
- 3) This Agreement is governed by the laws of the Federal Republic of Germany. The place of jurisdiction for dealer Licensees is the seat of the Licensor.
- 4) Deliveries to EC countries can only be invoiced without VAT provided the Licensee has quoted its UST/VAT-ID number.